Switzerland Voices Stern Reply to Nazi Chief's Questioning

Would Sue W.P.A.

CLAIMING $3 back wages on W.P.A. in 1937, Allen B. Colby, 55, unemployed of Circleville, is going to sue the United States government—if he can find a lawyer to take the case and can get the government's consent to be sued. Colby wrote a letter the other day to the W.P.A. claim department. It read: "Within a quarter of a century ending in 1872 the government granted to railway concerns more than 150,000,000 acres of public land. If the government can do this, why can't it pay me $3 for work done in February, 1937?" A Cleveland supervisor says Colby was paid for the work he did.

14 AVIATORS DIE IN TWO WRECKS

French Bombers Collide At Tours, Another Falls At Le Bourget

PARIS, April 22—Fourteen aviators were killed in France today in two spectacular military aviation accidents.

Nine fliers were killed when two bombers collided while attempting to land at the St. Symphorien airport near Tours.

Five more were killed when a bomber crashed at Le Bourget airport.

The accidents occurred amid intense night and day aerial maneuvers.

RIVER TO RETURN TO ITS BANKS IN CINCINNATI AREA

CINCINNATI, April 22—The Ohio river was to be back within its banks at 5 p.m. today, W. C. Devereaux, meteorologist, predicted after studying the rate of recession of flood waters.

Early today the river level was 55.17 feet, three feet below the crest, reached Wednesday night. The stream was expected to drop three or four feet daily after passing flood stage of 52 feet this afternoon.

Devereaux said he did not expect any heavy rainfall off the weekend. However, the weather bureau predicted showers for tomorrow night.

KAY AND LAMOUR SPLIT MIGHT BE ONLY TEMPORARY

CHICAGO, April 22—Herbie Kay, orchestra leader, today, awaited what may turn out to be a "temporary divorce" from glamorous Dorothy Lamour of the films.

Clashing careers that kept them apart were blamed by the couple for their marital breakup when Kay filed suit in Chicago yesterday on a desertion charge.

In Hollywood, however, Miss Lamour was quoted as saying that neither is interested in any other person.

"I'm still in love with him and who knows but some day we may get together again?" she is reported to have said.

"Who knows?" echoed Kay.

Winner of a beauty contest in her native New Orleans, Miss Lamour and Kay met at a night club when she was working as a department store elevator operator and looking for a singing job. He later hired her and the two eloped in 1935.

Berne Expects Neighbors To Recognize Nation's Neutrality

ARMY READY FOR DEFENSE

Netherlands, Belgium, Others Send Notes Following Hitler's Request

BERNE, Switzerland, April 22—The Swiss government sent a stern reply today to a questionnaire received from Chancellor Hitler regarding the peace appeal sent to Berlin and Rome last weekend by President Roosevelt.

The questions asked by Hitler were whether Switzerland felt menaced by Germany and whether the Swiss government had been notified in advance of the American President's intention of sending the peace message.

The government replied that Switzerland had not been notified in advance of President Roosevelt's action.

Reply Quoted

In reply to Hitler's query as to whether Switzerland felt menaced by the Reich, the government stated:

"Switzerland is confident that its neutrality, which Germany and other neighboring governments have emphatically recognized, will be respected by all nations, but in any event has decided to defend her independence, if threatened, with her army."

LONDON, April 22—Four of Germany's neighbors—Switzerland, the Netherlands, Belgium and Lithuania—replied today to the query sent out by Chancellor Hitler regarding the peace message dispatched last week by President Roosevelt to the Führer and Premier Mussolini.

In his message Hitler asked a number of Baltic, Balkan and Scandinavian nations whether they deemed their independence threatened by the Reich and whether they had been informed in advance of the American President's decision to send his peace plea, which Il Duce already has denounced and to which Hitler will reply in a Reichstag speech April 28.

Holland Not Menaced

According to a Reuter dispatch from the Hague, the Netherlands government replied that Holland does not consider itself threatened by Germany.

The note added, according to Reuter, that in the event of a European war the Netherlands will have to "reckon with every power."

The Hague government also said it did not know of Mr. Roosevelt's intention to send the message before it was dispatched to Berlin and Rome.

Switzerland, in its reply, said it was confident its neutrality would be respected, but that if its independence were threatened, it would defend itself with its army.

A Reuter dispatch from Kaunas said the Lithuanian government, in forwarding its reply to Hitler, reportedly referred to the cession of Memel to the Reich and to the agreement under which the German government shouldered the obligation never to resort to force

Autos driven by Rex Bell, Ashville Route 2, and Miss Alice Huffer, N. Pickaway street, were involved in a minor traffic accident at 6 p.m. Friday on W. High street near Court street. A rear fender on the Huffer car was damaged.

Amputation of several of the fingers was necessary.

OHIOAN, ON CRUTCHES, HAS 'DOUBLE TROUBLE'

COLUMBUS, April 22—"Double Trouble" could well be the theme song of James Barnett, 39, of Steubenville, reported in fair condition today at St. Francis hospital.

Barnett, already injured and on crutches, was walking on a downtown Columbus street when his crutch plunged through a tiny hole in the sidewalk, where a glass block was missing from the pavement. The crutch broke and Barnett was thrown heavily to the sidewalk.

KRINN REMOVAL ORDER ON FILE

McCaw Decrees Chief Of Aid Division Ousted On April 30

An order for the removal of T. D. Krinn, E. Union street, on April 30 from the position of subdivision manager in the Division of Aid for the Aged was filed Saturday with the Civil Service Commission.

The order was filed by Thomas W. McCaw, chief of the Ohio Division of Aid for the Aged. The ouster order alleges that Mr. Krinn took part in political activities while head of the county department.

Mr. Krinn was recently placed under a 15-day suspension. The suspension became effective last Sunday.

E. C. Ebert, Watt street, recently appointed an investigator, is acting subdivision manager. The department now has only two employees, Mr. Ebert and Miss Clarissa Talbot, E. Union street, a case investigator.

Two other employees, Claude Ater, Perry township, and Mrs. Frank Littleton, Circleville, had previously been dismissed.

FARLEY TO BACK SECRETARY HULL FOR NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, April 22—Postmaster General James A. Farley is back in the driver's seat of the Franklin D. Roosevelt band-wagon and will go down the line for the President if he seeks a third term, it was learned today.

The poll was made after some Democrats conceived the strategy of bringing the Townsend plan bill, which calls for a transaction tax to pay a maximum pension of $200 a month to persons over 60 years of age, into the house for a show-down vote.

Charging that many Republican candidates in the last election obtained Townsend support merely on the promise that they would seek a full and fair hearing for the plan, the Democrats proposed to force the Republicans to vote "yes" or "no" on the proposal.

"It is well known that I have favored voting on the Townsend plan," said Boland. "I favor it for two reasons. First, we ought to vote on the merits of the plan and show the people who are being deceived that it is not possible to obtain passage of the measure.

"Secondly, I would have these Republicans, who have been obtaining Townsend support without promising anything in return, to show where they stand."

The house ways and means committee, which is considering revision of the old-age annuity provisions of the Social Security act, is expected to make a decision on the Townsend plan next week.

It further means Farley is now opposed to the nomination of Garner in 1940.

Farley, while proposing to throw his great power either to the President for a third term nomination or to Hull, is amenable to the vice-presidential nomination himself—particularly with Hull heading the ticket. His friends say he would take second place spot, too, with Mr. Roosevelt running for a third term.

The postmaster general believes he can take around 400 loyal delegates into the convention without help from other leaders. He has no doubt of his ability to nominate Hull, if Mr. Roosevelt seeks retirement.

Encirclement—The Powers Spar For Position

THIS map shows the lineup in Europe with number of troops and position of fleets tensely waiting developments. Reported plan to absorb Portugal into Spain, making Iberian peninsula completely within the Axis, is offset partly by British-Portuguese affirmation of mutual cooperation. Yugoslavia, hemmed in by powers friendly to the Axis, is one of the great question marks of Europe.

Townsend Ballot Sought To Clear House Record

WASHINGTON, April 22—More than 85 percent of house Democrats want to force a roll-call vote on the Townsend old-age pension plan to make a record on the issue and put Republicans "on the spot," it was disclosed today.

A canvass of house Democrats was made by assistant whips working under direction of Rep. Pat Boland, of Pennsylvania, party whip. The Democrats who want to vote on the issue include some who are openly supporting the Townsend plan, but the big majority is opposed to it.

The poll was made after some Democrats conceived the strategy of bringing the Townsend plan bill, which calls for a transaction tax to pay a maximum pension of $200 a month to persons over 60 years of age, into the house for a show-down vote.

FELLER STARTS YEAR'S WORK WITH 10-STRIKEOUT EDGE OVER TIGERS

DETROIT LOSES, 1-5, AS INDIAN PITCHER CLICKS

Bagby, Gomez, McFayden And Lee Turn In Brilliant Work

BROWNS DELAYED AGAIN

All Teams Have Unveiling Except St. Louis Club In American Loop

By Pat Robinson
NEW YORK, April 22—Baseball history is full of cases of pitchers who held command over a certain club over a period of years.

Carl Mays went along for several seasons without losing a single decision to the Athletics and it didn't matter whether Carl wore the uniform of the Red Sox or the Yanks as he was equally effective in both.

Coming down to a later day, Hal Schumacher of the Giants had only to throw his glove into the box to beat the Reds.

And now we have young Bob Feller of the Indians who seems to be a jinx to the Tigers. Bob wound up the season last year by fanning 18 Tigers for a major league record, and yesterday he started where he left off by fanning 10 more of them.

He not only fanned 10 but, what is more important to his prospects as a 20-game winner, he gave only two passes and but three hits, while turning in a 1 to 1 victory. Rookie Bernard McCoskey's homer was the only damaging punch against him.

Speed Essential

If the youngster has finally found control he should have no trouble in registering 20 victories for he has everything else he needs, including blinding speed and a great curve.

Another youngster, Sophomore Jim Bagby of the Red Sox, also had a great game up his sleeve. He held the A's to five hits and would have had a shut-out but for Hayes' homer. However, he had no trouble winning, 9 to 2, because Bud Farmee, making his debut as an American leaguer, proved he still is the wildest pitcher in the United States.

Gomez and the Yanks again did it the easy way, scoring a 6-3 decision over the Senators on DiMaggio's double and homer, good for three runs and Joe Gallagher's round-house wallop, accounting for the other three markers.

Every team has now had an unvelling except the Browns who were washed out again at Chicago.

MacFayden Tough

Over in the National league, the Giants got a sound 10-3 trouncing from the Bees. The New Yorkers could do nothing with Danny MacFayden until he grew wild in the ninth when they put over all their runs on one hit and four passes. Meanwhile the Boston entry was having a grand time pasting Melton and Wittig for 13 hits.

The Cards outhit the Cubs but Bill Lee was steady in the pinches and eased in to a 4-2 decision over Curt Davis. And the Dodgers and Phils battled to a 2-2 draw until darkness halted the proceedings at the end of the 11th inning.

The Pirates and Reds were not scheduled.

CHARLIE YATES TO SEEK HONOR ACROSS SEAS

NEW YORK, April 22—Charlie Yates, of Atlanta, was on the high seas today bound for England and in an attempt to become the second American ever to repeat in the British amateur golf championship.

The youthful bank clerk appeared to be optimistic, but declined to discuss his chances of successfully defending at Hoylake the title he won last year against a choice field in Scotland. He was accompanied by Francis Ouimet, of Boston, captain of last year's Walker Cup team, of which Yates was a member, and Bill Holt, of Syracuse, N. Y. Ouimet will not enter the tournament.

With his victory last year, Yates was the fifth American to capture the British crown, his predecessors being the late Walter Travis, Jess Sweetser, Bobby Jones and Lawson Little. The only American repeater was Little, who came through for the second straight time in 1935.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At NEW YORK — Frankie Blair, 157½, Camden, N. J., scored technical knockout over Glen Lee, 155½, Edison, N. J. (8).

Tommy Spiegel, 132, Uniontown, Pa., decisioned Johnny Rinaldi, 141, New York (8).

Detroit Bowlers Take Five-Man Lead in A. B. C.

LON BURR, FRED BRECKLE, JOHNNY CRIMMINS, LEN DETOFF AND CHARLES KOTARSKI

BLASTING 8,151 pins, the third highest five-man score ever made in the American Bowling Congress, the Detroit Fife Electric company team holds the lead in the team division of the A. B. C. in Cleveland. Left to right, the team members are Lon Burr, Fred Breckle, Johnny Crimmins, Len Detoff and Charles Kotarski. The tourney runs to May 5.

'BIG HANK' MAN OF THE WEEK IN SPORTS WORLD

By International News Service

Hank Greenberg, slugging first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, draws the brass ring this week, although it is difficult to overlook Joe Louis' defense of his heavyweight title, Joey Archibald's winning of the featherweight crown or Lefty Grove's fine come-back.

The big right hand hitter, who was born and raised in the shadow of both the Giants' Polo Grounds and the Yankees' stadium, staged a Merriwell performance Thursday when he broke up a game with the White Sox in the 14th inning by hitting his first home run of the season.

That set Hank off to a fast start and paved the way for his assault on Babe Ruth's home run record.

Hank came within two of the Ruthian mark when he hit 58 last year and many baseball men believe he may equal or pass Ruth's 60 made in 1927.

The good-natured Tiger is, if anything, overly modest. He always says there never will be another home run hitter like Ruth and would still insist on that even if he hung up a new record.

He is more eager to break Lou Gehrig's American league record for runs batted in which is 184 and, if he has an exceptional year, he might even top Hack Wilson's National league figure, which is 190.

Hank came within one of Gehrig's mark two years ago he may go all the way this year.

A. A. TEAMS HOPE FOR CHANCE TO PLAY CONTESTS

COLUMBUS, April 22—Teams in the American Association hoped today that weather would permit them to resume play and catch up on lost games during the weekend. All clubs were idle yesterday because of rain or wet grounds.

The Columbus Red Birds were to play one match this afternoon, a double header tomorrow and one tilt Monday before completing their current home stay. Opposition was to be the Milwaukee Brewers.

Al Fisher was to take the mound today for Columbus, while Newell Kimball was to lead the invaders. Sunday, Max Lanier and Nate Andrews are picked to pitch for the local team and Ken Jungles and Tex Carlton for the visitors.

The Toledo Mud Hens still lead the loop, having won three and lost one. Louisville and Indianaans are tied for second place.

EIGHT RACE PROGRAM ON AT BEULAH PARK COURSE

COLUMBUS, April 22—An eight race program today was to usher in the midwestern racing season at Beulah Park here. Twenty-five days of running were scheduled.

An unusually large number of horses that have never before raced here, were scheduled to participate in the first day's festivities.

NEW WAR SCARE

BOSTON—In behalf of a jittery Wellesley client, a local contractor has requested data on construction of a bomb and gas proof shelter. The contractor kept secret the name of his client and the reason for the request.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

The youthful bank clerk appeared to be optimistic, but declined to discuss his chances of successfully defending at Hoylake the title he won last year against a choice field in Scotland. He was accompanied by Francis Ouimet, of Boston, captain of last year's Walker Cup team, of which Yates was a member, and Bill Holt, of Syracuse, N. Y. Ouimet will not enter the tournament.

With his victory last year, Yates was the fifth American to capture the British crown, his predecessors being the late Walter Travis, Jess Sweetser, Bobby Jones and Lawson Little. The only American repeater was Little, who came through for the second straight time in 1935.

BROWNS DELAYED AGAIN

All Teams Have Unveiling Except St. Louis Club In American Loop

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 22—Baseball history is full of cases of pitchers who held command over a certain club over a period of years.

Carl Mays went along for several seasons without losing a single decision to the Athletics and it didn't matter whether Carl wore the uniform of the Red Sox or the Yanks as he was equally effective in both.

Coming down to a later day, Hal Schumacher of the Giants had only to throw his glove into the box to beat the Reds.

And now we have young Bob Feller of the Indians who seems to be a jinx to the Tigers. Bob wound up the season last year by fanning 18 Tigers for a major league record, and yesterday he started where he left off by fanning 10 more of them.

Speed Essential

If the youngster has finally found control he should have no trouble in registering 20 victories for he has everything else he needs, including blinding speed and a great curve.

Another youngster, Sophomore Jim Bagby of the Red Sox, also had a great game up his sleeve. He held the A's to five hits and would have had a shut-out but for Hayes' homer. However, he had no trouble winning, 9 to 2, because Bud Farmee, making his debut as an American leaguer, proved he still is the wildest pitcher in the United States.

Gomez and the Yanks again did it the easy way, scoring a 6-3 decision over the Senators on DiMaggio's double and homer, good for three runs and Joe Gallagher's round-house wallop, accounting for the other three markers.

Every team has now had an unvelling except the Browns who were washed out again at Chicago.

MacFayden Tough

Over in the National league, the Giants got a sound 10-3 trouncing from the Bees. The New Yorkers could do nothing with Danny MacFayden until he grew wild in the ninth when they put over all their runs on one hit and four passes. Meanwhile the Boston entry was having a grand time pasting Melton and Wittig for 13 hits.

The Cards outhit the Cubs but Bill Lee was steady in the pinches and eased in to a 4-2 decision over Curt Davis. And the Dodgers and Phils battled to a 2-2 draw until darkness halted the proceedings at the end of the 11th inning.

The Pirates and Reds were not scheduled.

'BIG HANK' MAN OF THE WEEK IN SPORTS WORLD

By International News Service

Hank Greenberg, slugging first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, draws the brass ring this week, although it is difficult to overlook Joe Louis' defense of his heavyweight title, Joey Archibald's winning of the featherweight crown or Lefty Grove's fine comeback.

The big right hand hitter, who was born and raised in the shadow of both the Giants' Polo Grounds and the Yankees' stadium, staged a Merriwell performance Thursday when he broke over a game with the White Sox in the 14th inning by hitting his first homer of the season.

That set Hank off to a fast start and paved the way for his assault on Babe Ruth's home run record.

Hank came within two of the Ruthian mark when he hit 58 last year and many baseball men believe he may equal or pass Ruth's 60 made in 1927.

The good-natured Tiger is, if anything, overly modest. He always says there never will be another home run hitter like Ruth and would still insist on that even if he hung up a new record.

He is more eager to break Lou Gehrig's American league record for runs batted in which is 184, and if he has an exceptional year, he might even top Hack Wilson's National league figure, which is 190. Hank came within one of Gehrig's mark two years ago he may go all the way this year.

A. A. TEAMS HOPE FOR CHANCE TO PLAY CONTESTS

COLUMBUS, April 22—Teams in the American Association hoped today that weather would permit them to resume play and catch up on lost games during the weekend. All clubs were idle yesterday because of rain or wet grounds.

The Columbus Red Birds were to play one match this afternoon, a double header tomorrow and one tilt Monday before completing their current home stay. Opposition was to be the Milwaukee Brewers.

Al Fisher was to take the mound today for Columbus, while Newell Kimball was to lead the invaders. Sunday, Max Lanier and Nate Andrews are picked to pitch for the local team and Ken Jungles and Tex Carleton for the visitors.

The Toledo Mud Hens still lead the loop, having won three and lost one. Louisville and Indianapolis are tied for second place.

EIGHT RACE PROGRAM ON AT BEULAH PARK COURSE

COLUMBUS, April 22—An eight race program today was to usher in the midwestern racing season at Beulah Park here. Twenty-five days of running were scheduled.

An unusually large number of horses that have never before raced here, were scheduled to participate in the first day's festivities.

EL CHICO SURE BET TO VIE IN DERBY CLASSIC

Rumors About Withdrawal Unfounded; Technician Shows Strength

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 22—El Chico, one-time Winter book favorite in the Kentucky Derby, was regarded today as a fairly sure bet to start the $50,000 race, after all.

Stock in the William E. Ziegler colt took a tumble after its beating at Jamaica last Saturday and it was reported that El Chico might not even be shipped to Churchill Downs.

Word was received yesterday, however, that both El Chico and his stablemate Our Mat will make the trip for the annual classic. Because of a shortage of stable space, no other horses in the Ziegler string will take part in the Downs meeting this year, it was said.

William E. Smith, vice-chairman of the Kentucky Racing commission, refused to be drawn into any discussion in the white-hot Don Meade case. The stellar jockey recently was reinstated in New York state and his riding in the derby has been a major matter of conjecture.

Smith said that "if and when" Meade applies the commission would "consider" his application for license.

Technician, the Insco colt and stablemate of Lawrin, 1938 derby winner, continued to shine above the other derby hopefuls already on hand, and was clocked yesterday in 1:45 2/5 for the mile.

BUCKEYE BALL PLAYERS DROP MICHIGAN TEAM

COLUMBUS, April 22—The Big Ten baseball season was under way officially today with the chalking up of the 3 to 1 inaugural victory of Ohio State university over Michigan's Wolverines. The second contest was scheduled for this afternoon.

JOHNNY DAGENHARD starred on the mound for Ohio State at the opener. Except for one bad inning, the Ohio flash might have finished with a whitewash job. Until the eighth inning, he allowed just one hit, a beautiful bunt off the bat of Charlie Bunt.

Things looked bad for Ohio State in the eighth inning after two walks and a safety filled out the bases. But Peckinpaugh relieved the situation by grounding out into fast double play.

10 PREAKNESS, DERBY HORSES IN CHESAPEAKE

HARVE DE GRACE, Md., April 22—Ten Kentucky derby and Preakness candidates were ready today to stage what promises to be a thrilling race this afternoon when they clash in the $15,000 added Chesapeake stakes, mile-and-a-sixteenth feature which is down for its 20th running.

Generally rated as the likely favorite was W. L. Brann's Challenger, idle since November but running well in workouts here. Hugh Jackson's Ariel Toy, W. E. Boe's Porter's Mite, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Impound, Gilded Knight from the Wheatley stable and Voltant from the Saratoga stable all were regarded as strong possibilities to win the three-year-old fixture.

Others expected to start were Challenge, Shambles, Day Off and Sun Lover. Challenge and Gilded Knight are running as a Belair Stud-Wheatley stable entry.

COUNTY SEAT PUGILISTS FAVORED TO COP TITLE

LOUIS, TONY IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 22—Champion Joe Louis and Tony Galento crossed paths in Chicago, but they didn't meet. The heavyweight titleholder arrived with Mrs. Louis from the West Coast where he flattened Jack Roper last Monday. Galento was headed for California and a series of exhibition matches. The roly-poly contender meets Louis in New York, June 22 in a title match.

KANSAS RELAYS ATTRACT MANY STAR ATHLETES

LAWRENCE, Kans., April 22—

The Kansas relays today see at least three intercollegiate title holders in action, and a possibility that new records will be established.

The feature event is the special mile run about mid-afternoon in which Glenn Cunningham of the University of Kansas extension department, and Chuck Fenske, former Wisconsin star, will compete. Cunningham will be out to beat Fenske who has finished ahead of him twice indoors lately.

Elmer Hackney of Kansas State, who sends the shot more than 52 feet, is another champion entered. The best Kansas relay shot put record is 51.6.

Fred Wolcott of Rice, hurdler, who made a new Kansas relay record of 14.2 in 1938, and later in the intercollegiate made it in 14 flat, is the third champion whose performance is being watched.

Some of the fastest teams in the country are entered in the relays.

GALLIPOLIS GIRL WINS THE ATRE TALENT CONTEST

LAWRENCE, Kans., April 22—

The Search For Talent contest at the Grand theatre Friday night was a decided success. Although the contests have been going on for the past few weeks the competition has never been as keen.

After much deliberation the audience selected Miss Sarah Jane Gallipolis, Ward, as the winner of first prize. Miss Ward, who is ten, presented a difficult acrobatic and tap dance routine. Second prize went to June and Bobby, Jitterbug dancers. Third prize was awarded to The Six Aces, a group of singers from Darbyville under the direction of Miss Bernelle Goodman. These boys sang an old spiritual for their first number and "Roll Them Bones" for their second number. The Six Aces included Ernest Ankrom, tenor; Lawrence Reid and John Willberger, second tenors; Carroll Reid and John Crawford, baritones; Harry Hott, bass, "Shake" Davidson, who is in charge of the Search For Talent contest for the Chakkers theatre, asked the Six Aces to be guest artists on the Chakkers Swing Time program which is broadcast every week over station WHIO of Dayton.

Other local people who made an excellent showing in the program Friday were the Cornwell Sisters, a harmony team from Rural Route one; Charles Wise, tap dancer; Wayne Ogan, who sang cowboy songs; Norma Gene and Donna McCray, who with Janette Badgar presented a clever tap dance routine; Ellsworth Jenkins with barnyard imitations.

The Search For Talent contest will be presented again Friday night with an entirely new show.

The contest is open to any person who can do anything worth while.

Application blanks are available at the Grand Theatre.

Paul Wins Recognition for Gentiles

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 15:1-35; Galatians 2:1-10.

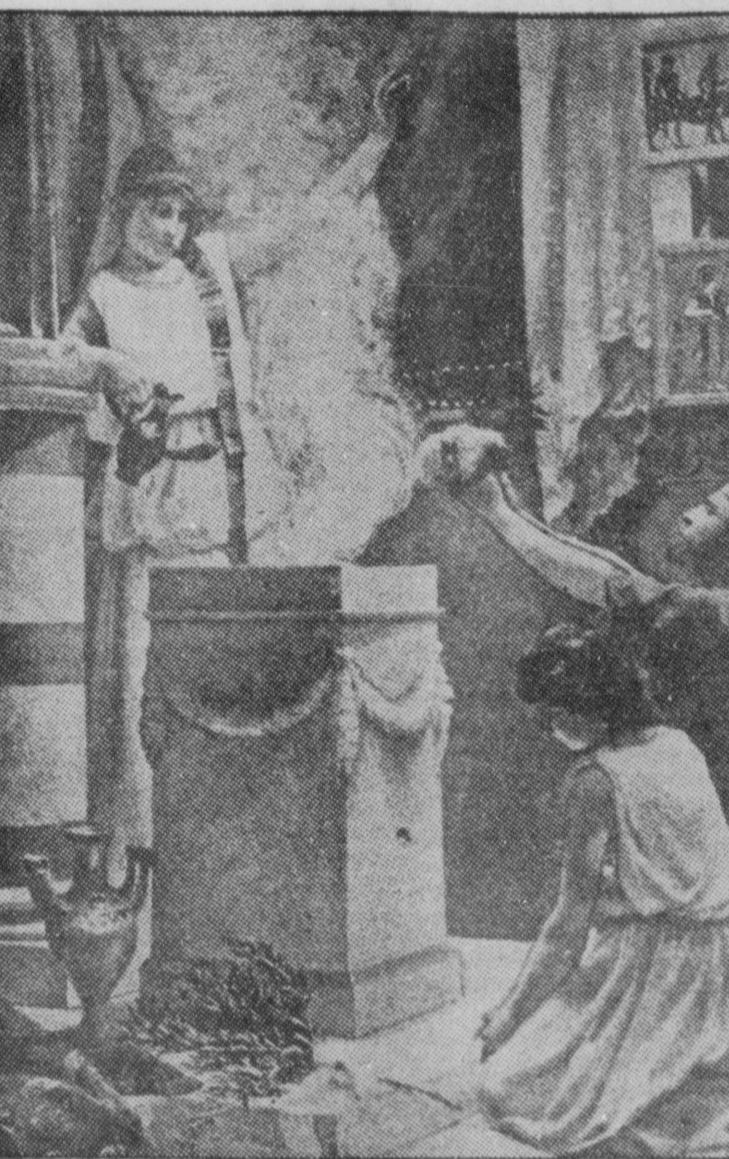

Some members of the early Christian church thought that Gentiles who were converted should become Jews, obeying every part of the Mosaic law, so Paul and Barnabas went to Jerusalem.

At Jerusalem, certain Pharisees disputed the right of Gentiles to become Christians, but it was decided that the only laws they should keep were minor ones, concerning food and behavior.

So firm was Paul that Gentiles should become Christians without obeying the Mosaic law in every respect, that James, Cephas and John, pillars of the church, gave him the right hand of fellowship.

"Man is not justified by the works of the law," said Paul, "but by the faith of Jesus Christ, for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified." (GOLDEN TEXT: Galatians 2:16.)

"A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ."—Galatians 2:16.

GUARDING THE PACIFIC

As with most of the movements on the international chessboard just now, there is probably a good deal more in the return of the American navy to the Pacific than meets the eye.

Roosevelt replied that he could make no commitments.

Recently, again, the British, fearful of what might happen in the Far East, sent a mission to Japan and China ready to talk compromise, even discuss the cession of Hongkong to Japan.

This is an almost inconceivable concession for the mighty Empire of Britain. But real fact is that Hongkong is completely at the mercy of the Japanese, could be taken overnight.

PHILIPPINE WORRY

So also are the Philippines, which under the independence agreement still can depend upon eight years of American protection. This is understood to be one of the major factors in the sudden shift of the fleet back to Pacific waters.

Another situation worrying the Navy Department is the known Japanese intention to pounce upon the Dutch East Indies whenever Europe is busy elsewhere. Java and Sumatra, with their tremendous oil reserves, long have been the most coveted prize of the Japanese Navy.

Today, with the British engaged in the Atlantic, Japan could take not only the Dutch East Indies, but the Malays, Siam, French Indo-China, and probably even Singapore without losing many ships.

TRAFFIC HABITS

CHILDREN have proved apt pupils in safety training. They have gone to work with a zest that has produced fine results, reducing the number of street accidents. They understand the purpose of traffic rules and usually are more than willing to obey them. They form easily the habits of looking both ways before crossing a street, waiting for the "Go" signal, using the prescribed crossings, and so on.

Yet these good habits do not invariably carry over into adult life. Again and again adults who, as children a few years back, set an example of excellent traffic behavior, seem suddenly to change. They proceed to do just as foolish things, as drivers or pedestrians, as people who have not had safety education in school.

The psychologists should step in at this point and find out, if they can, why good traffic habits so often do not last beyond school days. Then they might institute a

VANDENBERG VS. TAFT

Two men left the Gridiron Club dinner last week with entirely different emotions. One was Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, who was in the clouds. The other was Senator Bob Taft of Ohio, who was in the doldrums.

Their opposite reactions were not dissociated. Bob Taft had pulled the worst speech of the Gridiron evening. Everyone was talking about it. Newsman who heard him figured it washed him up as a presidential candidate.

And Taft, being a realist, knew it, frankly told his friends that he had pulled a dud.

That was why Vandenberg left the Gridiron Club feeling high. He and Taft recently have been on the opposite ends of

type of traffic education which would be permanent, with the emphasis on orderly procedure for everyone's good rather than mere individual safety.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to find another day of overcast sky and temperature too low to be pleasing to me. Soon away to the post, there to find a letter from Eleanor Smith in Coconut Grove at Miami, Florida. "If it were possible," she writes, "I should be glad to do a little snappy swapping through your classified columns, such as six weeks of insufferable sunshine for two weeks of the rain that you seem to be enjoying. I will also swap my water bill for anybody's coal bill—sight unseen. I should admire to acquire a thermometer guaranteed to register not over 72 degrees. A little later on, when you are knee-deep in them, I'll take your asparagus, green peas, and strawberries, and send up some grapefruit, oranges and limes, not to mention bananas from my own yard. But later on, when you are wallowing in corn on the cob and red raspberries, I'll know I'm whipped; I shan't insist you by offering any Hadens, or perchance a sapo-dillo, but will just beat my head on the floor and bawl."

At the Coffee Club did meet all the regular members, but learned not a thing new. Sometimes it is a dull organization. Returned to the plant to find Ned Harden in seeking a pair of field glasses. A motorist had left her car after carefully locking it. When she returned she discovered that the only key that would open the doors had been locked on the inside when she sprung the spring locks. And there she was. Had no spare, so the Harden mechanics were seeking a strong pair of glasses in the hope that they might read the numbers on the key and then duplicate it. Every week local garages receive calls in at least a half dozen such cases. I paid heavily once to have my car opened and since then have carried two keys on different rings and have a third key concealed about the car where I can get it if necessary. And the necessity has arisen a time or two.

Heard talk around town about the organization of a casting club and possible use of the pool at the County Home. Think it is a fine idea and believe that some two score men would be glad to join. Most of them would be fishermen and in return for the right to use the county pool they could keep it stocked with fish for the entertainment of the members of the home. During the year I catch many fish that I drop back into their original water. I could just as well drop them in the County Home pond.

In the evening did attend the home talent production at Memorial Hall and there laughed more than I have laughed at any show in years. The production really was funny and was made more so by the "female impersonators," if they might be termed so. Most of them looked like no woman I ever saw or hope to see. It was a good cast and good entertainment. Afterwards did drop in at Fritz Sieverts for ice cream and then home and soon to bed hoping for sunshine on the morrow and wondering just how many Saturdays of this Spring have brought rain. Too many, entirely.

Eighteen Varieties Of Arthritis Known

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS VERY difficult to answer a question that is frequently written to this column, which asks what is there to do for arthritis, because the question presupposes that "arthritis" is an entity, that it is one thing.

We have described the commonest form of arthritis and the treatments for it—but the treatments that have proven of value and those that have been found wanting. This commonest type of arthritis is one that occurs in people of middle age, and is due to little overgrowth at the edges of the bones.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

But this is by no means the only kind of arthritis. The review of the Editorial Committee of the American Rheumatism Association, published in February, 1937, lists 18 kinds of arthritis. Next year there may be more, but that is the latest census.

Impossible to List

To write of all of them in the brief space of this article is impossible. There is the "psoriasis arthritis" group, the "allergic arthritis" group, the "dutless gland arthritis" group, and others with even more awful names. I am not going to describe them, not only because I have not enough space at my disposal, but also because I strongly suspect they don't exist.

Perhaps all of my readers do not understand exactly how a great many medical discoveries are made. For their benefit let me explain that a young man who has just graduated from medical school and hospital often finds himself with a great deal of time on his hands. He may be a member of a research group, or he may be starting in practice by himself, but in either case in the course of time he finds that it would be a good thing if he "discovered" something. It makes him a reputation. So he discovers something like "psoriasis arthritis" or "endocrine arthritis." And, at my age, these things do not impress me very much. "Rheumatism" basically is "rheumatism."

Made Sense

Two of these varieties of arthritis mentioned by the committee, however, made a little sense.

One is "obesity arthritis." It is not difficult to realize that an overweight body, moving about doing its daily duties, would put quite a strain on the knee joints, hips and ankle joints. The occurrence of pain in these joints in overweight people, especially in women of plethoric habit at the middle period of life, is very common. Experience teaches that a reduction in weight is automatically accompanied by cessation of the pain.

Then there is "gouty arthritis," or just plain gout. Undoubtedly there are thousands of cases of gout in America that are called arthritis and treated for arthritis, the true nature of the condition never being recognized.

Gout particularly attacks the joints of the great toes, but it may be anywhere. Among its favorite locales are the elbows, the wrists, the knees, the ankles. It may take several days of gradual pain and swelling to reach a climax. This is so like arthritis that it is puzzling. Nor does it always occur after feasting and drinking as at Christmas or Easter. It is much more likely to follow an injury, a surgical operation or an unusual exertion (a fishing trip). This also is puzzling to the uninitiated.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one who sends a stamped envelope, 10 cents and a self-addressed envelope, stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "The Care of the Diabetic," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

To write of all of them in the brief space of this article is impossible. There is the "psoriasis arthritis" group, the "allergic arthritis" group, the "dutless gland arthritis" group, and others with even more awful names. I am not going to describe them, not only because I have not enough space at my disposal, but also because I strongly suspect they don't exist.

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY
CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Phil Parrish, New York reporter, is old-fashioned enough to believe that his wife's place is in the home with their nine-month baby, Jessica Eleanor, who met Phil on a small-town newspaper, has aspirations to do some kind of writing and supplement her husband's income. Phil has a talk with Kate Douglas, society editor of his paper, who let Eleanor assist her for a few weeks before the baby was born. Kate comes up to the Parrish apartment in Greenwich Village to tell Eleanor she cannot take her back, for a few months at least.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

PHIL PARRISH came out of the subway kiosk and consulted the list in his hand. He had already purchased three of the four items that comprised the list. The tiny red rattle reposed in his pocket. The bottle of chianti was tenderly clutched under his arm and the single bright pointsettia in a clumsy pot occupied his other arm.

There was yet the matter of the kitten. The kitten was an inspiration. And there was a litter of furry, animate kittens at the butcher shop.

He had decided on the kitten after Kate told him of her visit that morning.

A fellow could find an easy approach with a kitten. He could say, "Now that our family is getting so large, we'd better get proper accommodations for them. A baby and a kitten need a lot of room to play in a house." Then, very casually: "I happened to hear about a little place today out on Long Island that I think would be about right. A whole house, Nell! A nursery for the baby and a fireplace for the cat to sleep by. A real kitchen and a park. You could have a garden. And when I get the book done we could get a car and you and Jessica could come to meet me every night. That's the real life for a family man."

"Suburban life?" He could almost hear Nell say it.

He decided against the kitten until he had talked to Eleanor.

Poor kid! Kate's news would have been bad news to her. He should have come home earlier, but the staff had been sliced and he was sticking pretty close to the job.

With the chianti and the flower would cheer her up.

By the time he had climbed the last flight of stairs and stood at their door, his heart was aching for it. Not ever going to let circumstances get me, Phil. I think people ought to be bigger than their disappointments. I'm going to try to be. So let's make this a celebration of my triumph over . . . over everything.

He shook his head.

I'm not going to be. That's what every other woman does. I'm not ever going to let circumstances get me, Phil. I think people ought to be bigger than their disappointments. I'm going to try to be. So let's make this a celebration of my triumph over . . . over everything.

He opened the door.

The scent of something succulent cooking struck him pleasantly. These days he was having a sandwich and a glass of milk for lunch and the thought of a good dinner drove his sympathy out of mind. Quickly it returned when he did not see Eleanor in the living room.

"Don't you care, Nell?"

She said slowly: "Of course I care. But I'm not going to let it get me down. If Kate can't take me back then, I'll get something else. I suppose you're going to say that I'm still surprising you because I'm not in the dumps."

He shook his head.

"I'm not going to be. That's what every other woman does. I'm not ever going to let circumstances get me, Phil. I think people ought to be bigger than their disappointments. I'm going to try to be. So let's make this a celebration of my triumph over . . . over everything."

"Stout fella!" he said, pouring the red wine into glasses. There was a sandwich and a glass of milk for lunch and the thought of a good dinner drove his sympathy out of mind. Quickly it returned when he did not see Eleanor in the living room.

"You've got a raise?"

"No, honey, no raise. They're cutting at the office and I'll be lucky if . . . well, look, what do you say if we get out of this place?"

Eleanor's eyes widened with surprise.

"Out to the country," he continued eagerly. "Well, not the country exactly, but Long Island. Some place where you could fuss around a house. A real house with clean walls and floors and lots of windows."

His wife put her fork down and waited.

"I know you're wonderful about taking Jessica out every day, but those three flights of stairs are too much for you, honey. If we were out in the country—on Long Island—you could put her out in her buggy and let her lie in the sun all day and you could—could—"

There was something in her face that stopped the eager flow of his words.

He began again. "You don't like this place, Nell. No matter what you do with paint and scrub brushes, you can't escape from the dirt. The place is falling to pieces. Tonight when I came down this filthy street and saw the litter, I felt ashamed that this was the best I was able to do for my family."

"We were going to make this Bohemia," she murmured.

"And I said to myself, I said,

GUARDING THE PACIFIC

AS with most of the movements on the international chessboard just now, there is probably a good deal more in the return of the American navy to the Pacific than meets the eye.

For one thing, the move may have been timed to make it clear to the European dictators, in connection with the President's peace proposal, that our navy was not going to meddle in the European situation. That might help to get a rational hearing for the big mutual-guarantee plan in Europe.

It was probably decided, too, by Washington experts, that it was time for the navy to get back into our western ocean for the moral effect on Japan and for reassurance of the British and French in that region. Those friendly powers, hard-pressed in Europe, have been seriously threatened by the Japanese lately in southern Asia and the antipodes.

An authority at Washington, addressing the D. A. R. convention, frankly took this view of it. The navy is concentrating in the Pacific, he said, to discourage any plans Japan may have for seizing more land in Asia. "The Pacific Ocean probably has been selected not only because it is the normal base of the U. S. fleet, but because it has been the practice of our Japanese friends to take advantage of any diversion in Europe to do something in the Pacific."

No fighting is expected, but "the presence of our fleet there might restrain them."

TRAFFIC HABITS

CHILDREN have proved apt pupils in safety training. They have gone to work with a zest that has produced fine results, reducing the number of street accidents. They understand the purpose of traffic rules and usually are more than willing to obey them. They form easily the habits of looking both ways before crossing a street, waiting for the "Go" signal, using the prescribed crossings, and so on.

Yet these good habits do not invariably carry over into adult life. Again and again adults who, as children a few years back, set an example of excellent traffic behavior, seem suddenly to change. They proceed to do just as foolish things, as drivers or pedestrians, as people who have not had safety education in school.

The psychologists should step in at this point and find out, if they can, why good traffic habits so often do not last beyond school days. Then they might institute a

JAPANESE DESIGNS FEARED

WASHINGTON—The U. S. fleet is sailing for Panama with secret orders. No one except two or three at the top knows what it will do once it reaches the Pacific. It is even doubtful whether those at the top have their plans completely formulated.

General strategy behind the sudden fleet shift, however, is definite. It is based upon the fact that when the British fleet is engaged in the Atlantic, the Japanese go berserk in the Pacific.

Last Summer, when everyone knew that the Czechoslovak crisis was coming to a head, Prime Minister Chamberlain sounded out Roosevelt, via Joe Kennedy, as to what the United States could do in the Pacific in case the British fleet got tied up in a European war.

Roosevelt replied that he could make no commitments.

Recently, again, the British, fearful of what might happen in the Far East, sent a mission to Japan and China ready to talk compromise, even discuss the cession of Hongkong to Japan.

This is an almost inconceivable concession for the mighty Empire of Britain. But real fact is that Hongkong is completely at the mercy of the Japanese, could be taken overnight.

PHILIPPINE WORRY

So also are the Philippines, which under the independence agreement still can depend upon eight years of American protection. This is understood to be one of the major factors in the sudden shift of the fleet back to Pacific waters.

Another situation worrying the Navy Department is the known Japanese intention to pounce upon the Dutch East Indies whenever Europe is busy elsewhere. Java and Sumatra, with their tremendous oil reserves, long have been the most coveted prize of the Japanese Navy.

Today, with the British engaged in the Atlantic, Japan could take not only the Dutch East Indies, but the Malays, Siam, French Indo-China, and probably even Singapore without losing many ships.

VANDENBERG VS. TAFT

Two men left the Gridiron Club dinner last week with entirely different emotions. One was Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, who was in the clouds. The other was Senator Bob Taft of Ohio, who was in the doldrums.

Their opposite reactions were not dissociated. Bob Taft had pulled the worst speech of the Gridiron evening. Everyone was talking about it. Newsmen who heard him figured it washed him up as a presidential candidate.

And Taft, being a realist, knew it, frankly told his friends that he had pulled a dud.

That was why Vandenberg left the Gridiron Club feeling high. He and Taft recently have been on the opposite ends of (Continued on Page Six)

type of traffic education which would be permanent, with the emphasis on orderly procedure for everyone's good rather than mere individual safety.

dillo, but will just beat my head on the floor and bawl."

At the Coffee Club did meet all the regular members, but learned not a thing new. Sometimes it is a dull organization. Returned to the plant to find Ned Harden in seeking a pair of field glasses. A motorist had left her car after carefully locking it. When she returned she discovered that the only key that would open the doors had been locked on the inside when she sprung the spring locks. And there she was. Had no spare, so the Harden mechanics were seeking a strong pair of glasses in the hope that they might read the numbers on the key and then duplicate it. Every week local garages receive calls in at least a half dozen such cases. I paid heavily once to have my car opened and since then have carried two keys on different rings and have a third key concealed about the car where I can get it if necessary. And the necessity has arisen a time or two.

Heard talk around town about the organization of a casting club and possible use of the pool at the County Home. Think it is a fine idea and believe that some two score men would be glad to join. Most of them would be fishermen and in return for the right to use the county pool they could keep it stocked with fish for the entertainment of the members of the home. During the year I catch many fish that I drop back into their original water. I could just as well drop them in the County Home pond.

In the evening did attend the home talent production at Memorial Hall and there laughed more than I have laughed at any show in years. The production really was funny and was made more so by the "female impersonators," if they might be termed so. Most of them looked like no woman I ever saw or hope to see. It was a good cast and good entertainment. Afterwards did drop in at Fritz Sieverts for ice cream and then home and soon to bed hoping for sunshine on the morrow and wondering just how many Saturdays of this Spring have brought rain. Too many, entirely.

Eighteen Varieties Of Arthritis Known

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS VERY difficult to answer a question that is frequently written to this column, which asks what is there to do for arthritis, because the question presupposes that "arthritis" is an entity, that it is one thing.

We have described the commonest form of arthritis and the treatments for it—both the treatments that have proven of value and those that have been found wanting. This commonest type of arthritis is

Made Sense

Two of these varieties of arthritis mentioned by the committee, however, made a little sense.

One is "obesity arthritis." It is not difficult to realize that an overweight body, moving about doing its daily duties, will put quite a strain on the knee joints, hips and ankle joints. The occurrence of pain in these joints in overweight people, especially in women of plethoric habit at the middle period of life, is very common. Experience teaches that reduction in weight is automatically accompanied by cessation of the pain.

But this is by no means the only kind of arthritis. The review of the Editorial Committee of the American Rheumatism Association, published in February, 1937, lists 18 kinds of arthritis. Next year there may be more, but that is the latest census.

Impossible to List

To write of all of them in the brief space of this article is impossible. There is the "psoriasis arthritis" group, the "allergic arthritis" group, the "dustless gland arthritis" group, and others with even more awful names. I am not going to describe them, not only because I have not enough space at my disposal, but also because I strongly suspect they don't exist.

Perhaps all of my readers do not understand exactly how a great many medical discoveries are made. For their benefit let me explain that a young man who has just graduated from medical school and hospital often finds himself with a great deal of time on his hands. He may be a member of a research group, or he may be starting in practice by himself, but in either case in the course of time he finds that it would be a good thing if he "discovered" something. It makes

CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Phil Parrish, New York reporter, is old-fashioned enough to believe that his new'sie is in the best of taste with their new-born baby, Jessica. Eleanor, who met Phil on a small-town newspaper, has aspirations to do some kind of writing, and when Phil got his highest salary, Phil has a talk with Kate Douglas, society editor of his paper, who lets Eleanor know that her baby is born. Kate stops in at the Parrish apartment in Greenwich Village to tell Phil that Eleanor can't take her back, for a few months at least.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

PHIL PARRISH came out of the subway kiosk and consulted the list in his hand. He had already purchased three of the four items that comprised the list. The tiny red rattle reposed in his pocket. The bottle of chianti was tenderly clutched under his arm and the single bright poinsettia in a clumsy pot occupied his other arm.

There was yet the matter of the kitten. The kitten was an inspiration. And there was a litter of furry, amiable kittens at the butcher shop.

He had decided on the kitten after Kate told him of her visit that morning.

A fellow could find an easy approach with a kitten. He could say, "Now that our family is getting so large, we'd better get proper accommodations for them. A baby and a kitten need a lot of room to play in. A house." Then, very casually: "I happened to hear about a little place out on Long Island that I think would be about right. A whole house, Nell! A nursery for the baby and a fireplace for the cat to sleep by. A real kitchen and a park. You could have a garden. And when I get the book done we could get a car and you and Jessica could come to meet me every night. That's the real life for a family man."

"Suburban life!" He could almost hear Nell say it.

He decided against the kitten until he had talked to Eleanor.

Poor kid! Kate's news would have been bad news to her. He should have come home earlier, but the staff had been sliced and he was sticking pretty close to the job. Anyway, the chianti and the flower would cheer her up.

By the time he had climbed the last flight of stairs and stood at their door, his heart was aching for her. Already, though he could not see it, her white, strained face, sick with disappointment, made him ache with sympathy.

He opened the door.

The scent of something succulent cooking struck him pleasantly. These days he was having sandwich and a glass of milk for lunch and the thought of a good dinner drove his sympathy out of mind. Quickly it returned when he did not see Eleanor in the living room.

"Hi!" he said experimentally.

"Hello, darling!" Eleanor, with a smile, came out of the bedroom with a freshened baby in her arms. "Would you care to see our debuteante? She's just leaving for a big party and we thought you'd like to look over her little flannelette evening dress."

Relief was almost a lump in his throat. He kissed her, thinking her a great little soldier, and took the fragrant baby out of her arms.

She said: "You can have her for ten minutes and then tuck her away. Dinner'll be ready very shortly. I'll have a look at it."

After he'd put the baby in her crib and told her all the news he thought she'd like to hear, he pulled her little blanket under her chin and said: "Lucky chap who takes you to dreamland tonight. You tell him your old man is jealous. I'll bet you'll be the prettiest girl there."

He thought he saw the baby

Play On Lincoln's Life Interests Social Club

Mrs. Richard Jones
Pleases Large Audience

Social Calendar

Approximately 70 members and guests gathered in the social room of the Presbyterian church Friday night for the splendid program of the Women's Social club. Mrs. Richard Jones held the close attention of each one while she read her unusually interesting play based on the life of Abraham Lincoln during the 14 years he lived as a youth in Indiana.

The play dealt with his life from the ages of seven to 21, when he left that state to live in Illinois. The first scene of the play was laid in the humble cabin of the Lincoln family and dealt with the details of the last hours and death of his mother, Nancy. It told of her ambition for him, as he, even as a small boy, was already showing his great thirst for knowledge in his pertinent questions concerning everything dealing with the ordinary events of life.

With the coming of a stepmother into his life, he received encouragement which he would not have had from his father, who was a rough, quick tempered man, interested more in hunting and fishing than in the higher things of life. The last scene of the play shows Lincoln in the White House soon after his inauguration and before the Civil War. All through, keen insight in drawing the characters of her play was shown by Mrs. Jones. The play was written in dialect typical of the times and many humorous witticisms lightened the play which through its very nature moved slowly through the period of years.

Of especial interest to club members was the annual election of officers. Mrs. B. T. Hedges as chairman of the nominating committee presented the slate, which was unanimously accepted. Mrs. G. G. Campbell will be president for the ensuing year, Mrs. Donald H. Watts, vice president, and Mrs. Leland Pontius, secretary. This will be Mrs. Pontius' second term in that office.

Mrs. Hulse Hays, president, conducted the meeting which opened with prayer led by Mrs. C. E. Groce.

Miss Eleanor Snyder delighted the group with three songs, Miss Abbe Mills Clarke playing her piano accompaniments. Miss Snyder's selections included "Kerry Dance"; Molloy, "Buy My Strawberries"; Oliver, and "Over the Land is April," by Ernest Charles.

The interesting program for the evening was arranged by the year program committee with Mrs. E. O. Crites, chairman.

Tips on Tuberous-Rooted Begonias

Tuberous-rooted begonias are becoming more popular every year. For porch boxes and baskets and for bloom in shade or semi-shade, they are ideal, and they reward the gardener with bursts of brilliant colors.

As shown in the illustration, start the bulbs indoors in a flat containing half sand and half peat. Moisten the soil and press the tubers into it. The concave side of the tuber should be placed uppermost. Take care not to let water collect in this depression in the tuber. Space the tubers two inches apart when planting. Place the flat in a light, warm place, but not in the sun.

Plant the begonias outdoors when all danger of frost is past. Before planting these begonias outdoors add a good supply of leafmold to the soil that is to receive them.

Carlton S. Dargusch, committee chairman, declared the educators would be called within the next two weeks. The professors, named by Arden S. Turner, former Ohio State student, when questioned by the committee are: Dr. W. W. North, sociology department and Dr. H. Gordon Hayes, economics professor.

William E. McPherson, acting president of the institution, today came to the defense of the professors and the college by denying there were "Reds" among the faculty.

"There are no Communists here," Professor McPherson said. "Of course, anyone can make charges, but it takes someone else to prove them."

Turner admitted in his testimony that he did not have evidence substantiating the charges.

ROOSEVELT MAY STEP INTO SOFT COAL ARGUMENT

NEW YORK, April 22—As the nation's soft coal shortage reached a critical stage, negotiators of the United Mine Workers and operators of Appalachian bituminous fields were scheduled to meet today in what may be the final conference before President Roosevelt assumes jurisdiction over the negotiations.

Both factions admitted they could see no sign of a break in the deadlock which has existed for nearly a month in efforts to agree upon a new contract.

British press dispatches said the Belgian government has replied to a questionnaire by Hitler, who asked a number of small nations whether they felt themselves threatened by the Reich and whether they requested President Roosevelt's intercession.

A Brussels message to the London Daily Express said it was understood the Belgian government replied by expressing hope Germany will respect the non-aggression pact she gave Belgium last year.

Dutch circles in London indicated the reply of the Netherlands to Hitler, when it is sent, will "express the hope Germany will respect Dutch sovereignty."

Uneasiness Hinted

These reports indicate the two nations bordering the English channel—Britain's traditional "buffer" states—are hinting to Germany their uneasiness concerning the future and a desire to obtain from Germany some indication that the Reich will not cross their frontiers.

Paris sources reported the Russian scheme for collaboration against aggression is so comprehensive that Moscow has even brought the Far East into the picture, asking aid against a possible Japanese assault in exchange for Soviet pledges to defend Great Britain, France and their allies against a possible blow from the Rome-Berlin axis.

"Does Belgium consider itself menaced by Germany?"

The premier was quoted as recalling in reply that Germany, Great Britain and France had guaranteed to maintain Belgium's neutrality, and expressing the hope that Belgium would be able to count on this given word.

Police found the body of Mrs. Velma Montague, attractive bruneette mother of two young girls, slumped over the wheel of her automobile on a country lane near the home where Humphrey had appeared. She had been shot in the breast and hip.

Shortly afterward Dr. Montague, superintendent of the county-city hospital, voluntarily surrendered at the county jail in the company of his attorney. He waived preliminary hearing and his bond was set at $5,000.

Funeral services were held for Charles Henry Foster at 3 o'clock with Rev. A. M. Forrester officiating.

Interment was in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

The pall was carried by Shirley Gearhart, F. P. Long, Fred Leasure, Egbert Freshour, Leslie Shepler and Will Avis.

Mrs. H. E. Yapple left on Wednesday for a visit with her son Theodore and family in Columbus.

The Presbiteral was held in North Minster church, in Columbus, on Thursday and Friday. Those attending from Kingston were—Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Forrester, Mrs. H. E. Yapple, Mrs. D. W. Kuhn, Mrs. Margaret Dolbey and Mrs. Frank L. Haynes.

Mayor L. J. Young is on the sick list.

Mrs. May McCullough was chairman of the beautiful decorations and Mrs. Carl V. Hohenstein was chairman for the dinner, when Kingston Chapter No. 41, O.E.S., held its Annual Inspection on Tuesday evening, April 18th.

The paper said the B.E.C. under government operation will become primarily a government radio news service and a "propaganda machine," particularly to push the British recruiting campaign.

The petition says Mrs. Lamaster was injured June 16, 1938, when struck by a train at the crossing on Washington street. It explains that some street improvements were being made and she was crossing the street on the plank crossing when struck. The petition alleges the engine approached without blowing a whistle or sounding a bell.

The suit was brought by the Stoner Manufacturing company, alleging the loss was incurred as the result of a strike called by the union on April 12 which forced a shutdown of the plant.

Turner admitted in his testimony that he did not have evidence substantiating the charges.

COFFILL DIVORCE

Suit for divorce and alimony was filed in Common Pleas court Friday by Little Coffill, 18, of Muhlenberg township, O., insurance broker, reported missing by Harry Chipman, manager of the Columbus branch of the Equitable Life Insurance Co. Chipman told police that Balliet was last seen April 19, driving on the Loudonville-Mansfield road.
